Tool: Ecocycle planning to update your interventions

A very simple tool to reflect about the following aspects in the context of designing and implementing i5 interventions:

- What actions should I persist in?
- What should I let go of?
- What requires revitalization?
- What should I embark on anew?

The tool is described here for a group’s portfolio of activities. You can use this tool with peer groups or in your department for example. You can also adapt it to your own activities, and do the process on your own or with a peer support group in the context of designing and executing i5 inspired changes in your classes or interventions.

Here, there is a nice and detailed description of the tool:
