Tool: Educators Case Clinic

Inspired by the Presencing Institute. As an educator within your context with peer educators or with your students you could use this tool to understand different perspectives about challenges you experience, especially in the context of implementing i5 into your class.

CASE CLINIC

OVERVIEW

Case Clinics guide a team or a group of peers through a process in which a case giver presents a case, and a group of 3-4 peers or team members help as consultants based on the principles of the U-Process and process consultation. Case Clinics allow participants to:

- Generate new ways to look at a challenge or question
- Develop new approaches for responding to the challenge or question

PRINCIPLES

- The case should be a leadership challenge that is current and concrete.
- The case giver needs to be a key player in the case.
- The participants in the case clinics are peers, so there is no hierarchical relationship among them.
- Don’t give advice; instead listen deeply.

USES & OUTCOMES

- Concrete and innovative ideas for how to respond to a pressing leadership challenge
- High level of trust and positive energy among the peer group
- Use with: Mindfulness and listening practices

AN EXAMPLE

Participants of a master class program form peer learning groups. They do their first case clinic while they are in the program, and then use the process for monthly phone calls that allow each participant to present a case.

Process

Roles & Sequence

Case giver: Share your personal aspiration and leadership challenge that is current, concrete, and important, and that you happen to be a key player in. You should be able to present the case in 15 min and the case should stand to benefit from the feedback of your peers. Include your personal learning threshold (what you need to let-go of and learn).

Coaches: Listen deeply—do not try to “fix” the problem, but listen deeply to the case giver while also attending to the images, metaphors, feelings and gestures that the story evokes in you.

Timekeeper: One of the coaches manages the time.
